Patients in tears as centre closes

BY JO DEEKS

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

ANXIOUS patients were reduced to tears as a popular walk-in clinic closed its doors for the last time – and hundreds more signatures were added to a petition calling for better healthcare facilities to replace it.

Haverhill town councillors were joined by MP Matthew Hancock and many worried residents at a Day of Action at the Crown Health Centre on Saturday, before it closed at midnight.

The Weekly News launched a campaign in May to get health chiefs to spend some of the £1.2 million a year saved by closing the clinic on improving health facilities in the town.

The closure left 900 registered patients without a doctor and the clinic had attracted 22,500 visits since it opened in 2009.

Town clerk Will Austin said many people who came to the demonstration had no idea how their health needs would be met with the closure and promises to re-open the town's out-of-hours doctors base had not materialised.

Fundraisers are invited to get in the frame

FUN family portrait sessions are on offer at a photography studio this summer to raise funds for a hospice.

David Doughty, at The Gallery, in Lower Downs Slade, Haverhill is offering charity family portrait sessions, with £5 from every booking going to St Nicholas Hospice Care.

The results of the sessions will be put on display in September, and members of the public invited to vote for their favourite. The winning family will receive a £100 prize.

The initiative is part of The Gallery's efforts for the Towergate Accumulator Challenge, in which firms have three months to turn a £50 stake – donated by event sponsors Towergate Insurance – into as much money as possible for the Hospice.

This is the second year The Gallery has taken part in the challenge. Last summer David held a successful photographic competition, which attracted more than 50 entries and raised £260. The top prize was won by Brian Peters of Haverhill for his autumnal photograph taken at Stourhead National Trust, in Wiltshire.

Abby Mayes, hospice corporate fundraiser, said: "I can't wait to see the results of the portrait sessions and the eventual winners."

Portrait sessions are available until August 31. Public voting will take place from September 1 to 15. Pictures will be displayed on The Gallery's Facebook page and in the shop window. Votes can be placed at The Gallery.

For more information or to book a session, call (01440) 712333.

Peak performers raise £10k for hospital

STAFF members from a flooring company climbed Britain's three highest peaks together and raised a bumper £10,000 for Great Ormond Street Hospital.

A hardy bunch of eight employees from Ardex and Building Adhesives Limited in Haverhill completed the National Three Peaks Challenge last month, accompanied by a highly supportive back-up team.

It involves climbing Britain's three highest peaks, Ben Nevis in Western Scotland (4,099 ft), Scafell Pike in the Lake District (3,209 ft) and Snowdon in North Wales (3,560 ft), all within 24 hours, a total hike of 11,178 ft, and driving 415 miles between the mountains.

In appalling weather conditions, the team conquered Ben Nevis, with snowfields on the top, in 4 hours 40 minutes. The rain was horizontal most of the time, and because of the amount of water coming off the mountain it meant that the team were not walking along a track, but through a stream. The next stage, Scafell Pike, was again tackled through a raging torrent of rain, but the team all made it up and down the mountain in 3 hours 15 minutes.

After a 'soggy' mini bus journey, better weather conditions thankfully greeted the weary trekkers at Snowdon, where they completed the peak in 3 hours 30 minutes.

All eight members of the team walked over the finishing line to complete the challenge inside the target time of 24 hours, finishing in 23 hours 30 minutes.

Peter Bell, managing director of ARDEX and Building Adhesives Limited said: "I have to say, the effort and camaraderie of everyone in our team was immense. This challenge provided us with not only a physical challenge, but one where we had to overcome mental fatigue as well. I can't thank Great Ormond Street Hospital enough for providing us with the opportunity to participate and raise money and awareness for such a great charity. I would also like to thank and praise my colleagues, who were inspirational and showed what can be achieved through teamwork and endeavour."

When the £10,000 cheque was presented to the hospital, Mark Dove, area sales manager for Building Adhesives Limited for East Anglia, was present, with his wife Charlotte and 14-month old baby Olivia. The money will be specifically targeted for use on the ward where Olivia was, and is, still being treated.

Accepting the cheque from Peter Bell, managing director of ARDEX and Building Adhesives Limited was Lucy, the sister on Olivia's ward.

Town pioneers forum on key finance issues

BY JO DEEKS

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

RESIDENTS in a town chosen as one of only 12 in Britain to pilot a new scheme giving more control of its purse strings are being asked which services are most important.

Those living and working in Haverhill are being asked for their views on how money should be spent in the town through a new online survey launched last Friday.

In December 2011, the Government announced that Haverhill had been chosen as one of just a dozen areas to pilot a new way of giving local communities more say in the way budgets are spent.

ONE Haverhill has identified two key areas of public funding to look at first – money spent on improving the physical environment and opportunities for young people.

Local people will decide which of the areas under these headings are most important through a series of consultations.

Representatives from ONE Haverhill have already started to canvass views in the town by attending the torch relay and the Big Day Out event on the Recreation Ground last Wednesday.

A link to the online survey can be found by visiting www.onehaverhill.co.uk, the site of the board's new website, which is currently under development.

Under the Haverhill

Community Budget project, all organisations will still hold their funding and their responsibilities.

But the board will work on bringing organisations round the table to ensure the money is spent locally to provide the services local people value the most.

ONE Haverhill is leading the project.

It is an independent board that is bringing organisations and resources together to make them more effective and efficient in the town.

Members of the board include all three tiers of local government, the business sector, education, police, health, and the voluntary sector, Haverbury Housing, Abbeycroft Leisure and the faith community as one voice with the aim of improving the quality of life for people in Haverhill.

Anne Gower, chair of ONE Haverhill, said: "We have already started canvassing views by attending major events in the town.

"We want to reach as many people in Haverhill as possible, so the launch of our new online survey is a major step towards our community engagement project."

ONE Haverhill will submit its proposal to the Department for Communities and Local Government and will present their findings to Whitehall in October.

Visit ONE Haverhill on twitter at www.twitter.com/onehaverhill and on Facebook www.facebook.com/OneHaverhill

Arriving in style: David Beckham at the wheel of a speedboat, above, as Jade Baile, Arsenal and England Under 17 ladies soccer player, holds the modified torch. Right, the flame is transferred to Sir Steve Redgrave, as Beckham looks on.

How top glass work kept the Olympic flame alive

A SMALL Haverhill company kept the Olympic flame burning during its speedboat trip along the Thames.

Chris Briggs, managing director of Glassfusion in Rookwood Way, Haverhill – a company started by his father in 1972 and now employing just seven people – received a call from a company involved in planning the torch journey just two weeks before the opening ceremony.

Chris said: "A special effects company in London that we have worked for on a couple of television ads called to say they had a problem, as they had tested it, and the flame kept going out.

"They asked us to make a glass shield to protect the flame on its journey, as it was being carried by someone very important.

"All we knew was that it had to withstand the flame going up to 50mph without going out.

"We were sworn to secrecy. We knew it was being used somewhere in the opening ceremony, but we did not know how until we saw it on Friday night.

"It was quite exciting to see it in use." He added: "We felt we had saved the Olympics.

"It only took a couple of days to make and we had to make three, in case one got lost.

"I said I would make it for nothing if we got tickets to the opening ceremony, but sadly we did not get any.

"We are only a little company, but it was very nice to be able to help out."

Man hurt in 20ft fall from ladder

A MAN escaped serious injury after falling 20 feet from a ladder while trying to cut branches from a tree in his garden.

The 43-year-old suffered back and chest injuries after the incident in Watting Road, Haverhill, on Sunday afternoon. It is thought he received a kick-back from the chainsaw and was then also hit by part of the falling tree.

Suffolk Accident Rescue Service (SARS) were called to attend the incident. SARS Volunteer Doctor, Fiona Andrews and SARS Volunteer Critical Care Paramedic, Mark Wilsom, arrived on the scene along with a local paramedic and an ambulance team from Cambridge Station. The team of two SARS medics and three ambulance personnel worked together to treat the patient, who was then taken to Addenbrooke's by land ambulance with non-life threatening injuries.

Plans to merge management team

PLANS for a new joint management team working for two councils will go before councillors. Following the appointment of a shared chief executive, Ian Gallin, by St Edmundsbury and Forest Heath councils, the next stage is to share directors and heads of service to form the new joint management team. The proposed new senior management structure would replace the current posts.

Prison cuts lead to safety worry

FURTHER cuts to staffing and investment levels could compromise safety at a Suffolk prison, according to the latest report by independent monitors.

The report is the first since the former Edmunds Hill and Highpoint prisons at Stradishall, near Haverhill, were merged last year to become Highpoint North and South, which house a total of around 1,300 prisoners, making it one of the largest Category C training prisons in the county.

The prison governor announced last December that she would be leaving to take up another post and her successor is yet to be announced. This will be the third change in governor for Highpoint in just over four years.

The Independent Monitoring Board has issued its annual report for 2011, in which it highlights continuing concerns about men with mental health needs difficult to address within a prison environment and foreign national prisoners held beyond the end of their sentence.

BY JO DEEKS

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

The report acknowledges the dedication and commitment of staff at the establishment, but raises concerns about any further cuts to staffing levels.

The report said: "The board appreciates that savings are being sought throughout the prison service but is concerned as to how any future cuts in posts and investment will impact upon the current regime at Highpoint.

"It seeks an assurance that there will be sufficient investment to ensure a safe and decent environment for offenders and staff, and that it will be possible to maintain the level of resources necessary to prepare offenders for release.

"In the current financial climate, savings will be sought but the board is very concerned as to how they will be made.

"There is currently very good work being undertaken in education and training, offender behaviour courses and resettlement and the board would hope that this will be built upon and not eroded.

"The board is aware that staffing levels need to be very finely balanced when it comes to judging the number of staff essential for maintaining a safe and decent establishment and for responding to any incident.

"However, the board's particular anxiety is that reduced staffing could lead to prisoners being locked up for longer and association time being cut."

The report also notes a sharp increase in drug and alcohol finds at the prison, with cannabis resin up to 627.2 grams compared to 197.1 the previous year and 'hooch' up from 90 litres to 211.5 litres.

Apology after widower finds sunken grave

A GRIEVING widower has spoken of his anguish after discovering that the grave of his wife of 60 years had collapsed almost three feet into water-logged ground.

Len Plant, 81, and his family attended the funeral of his late wife Pat on Tuesday last week at the cemetery in Withersfield Road, Haverhill.

When family members went to visit the grave two days later they were horrified to discover that it had sunk into the ground and the wreaths were on their sides.

Mr Plant, of Castle Walk, Haverhill, who worked as a grave digger himself years ago, said: "Somebody said they went down there at 7am and it was all right, but when we went down there later the top of the grave had caved in and it was more than two feet deep, with all the wreaths tipped up on edge.

"It was terrible. We were married for 60 years and I had known my wife for 62 years. We never had an argument and that takes some doing. We would sit in the house or lie in bed holding hands, we were so together."

A spokesman for St Edmundsbury Borough Council said: "We are extremely sorry that the family is distressed. As there was excess water in the grave we put in sawdust to soak it up but this caused the ground to be uneven and would not allow the coffin to lay flat.

"We rectified the level once the service had finished and apologise to the family for this happening.

"The exceptionally wet weather over the past few months has caused problems with subsidence in many cemeteries and churchyards across the country and we have had to top up the soil on new graves for some time. This is what happened in this case and we will continue to top up this and other new graves, when necessary."

Size matters for Kelly as she picks up top slimming title

SLIMMER Kelly Jenkins is celebrating losing nearly four stones after joining her mum and granddad at a slimming club.

Kelly, 20, lost 3st 11lbs and as well as looking great and feeling fitter, has been named Young Slimmer of the Year 2012 at the Newcroft Slimming World group in Haverhill.

Now her win could see her reach the national finals of the competition, where she will be in with the chance of winning £2,000.

Life was very different for Kelly just 12 months ago.

She was unhappy with her size, her self confidence was low and she felt like the odd one out with her friends. She felt self-conscious, wouldn't go out and couldn't keep up at the gym.

Kelly joined her local Slimming World group, already attended by mum Debbie and granddad David, and run by Tania Watson, in January 2011.

She said: "I was really nervous the first time I went to the group, I was embarrassed about how big I was and I thought everyone would judge me for being overweight at such a young age. But I couldn't have been more wrong, everyone was really friendly and welcoming.

BY JO DEEKS

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

"I settled in quickly and I've made lots of friends – of all ages. I love going and seeing everyone every week now."

"The eating plan was completely different from what I'd expected. I thought losing weight meant not eating very much or cutting out my favourite foods. I learned a lot about food.

"Now I eat so many delicious meals without having to weigh or measure – and being hungry isn't a worry. I can still enjoy my favourite meals like burger and chips just cooked more healthily.

"I love being able to wear the same clothes as my friends and enjoy going out with them more now.

"It's great that I can still eat the same as my friends and family and lose weight even when it comes to things like McDonald's or chocolate, but now they're treats rather than something I have all the time."

Tania Watson said: "Everyone in the group is so proud of Kelly. She is a huge inspiration.

Just top: Kelly Jenkins is crowned Young Slimmer of the Year with Tania Watson, Kelly's granddad David Jenkins, and mum Debbie Jenkins.

CP

"I hope she'll inspire other young people in Haverhill by showing them that slimming clubs like Slimming World are for people of all ages and there's no better time to take control of their weight than right now."

Everyone from the age of 11 is welcome at the Newcroft Slimming World group Chalkstone Way every Wednesday at 9.30, 11.30am 5.30 and 7.30pm. For more information visit www.slimmingworld.com or call Tania Watson on (01440) 706143 or 07974565 229.

'Fight will continue after closure'

He said: "A lot of people came who felt completely cut adrift and not knowing how to access the care they need, and several were in tears."

"Some people will now have to go to Bury for weekly blood tests and cannot afford to get there. Some very real concerns were expressed by people and the waiting time for doctor's appointments had already increased even before the closure."

"The town council and our MP will continue to fight for a fair share of the £1.2 million that the PCT has stolen from Haverhill's health care, which we regard as wholly unacceptable."

Cllr Maureen Byrne: "So many people have been left with very little or no healthcare as from Saturday night. While we were there I would say between 40 and 60 people came to use the centre."

MP Matthew Hancock said: "With the Crown Health Centre closed, there will be a saving of over £1 million to NHS Suffolk, which received £24 million this year, but these savings won't be reinvested into Haverhill."

"Haverhill is a growing town on the up and this is unreasonable, which has united the community in this campaign for fair funding for Haverhill's health care."

Dr Andrew Cornish, of the Christmas Maltings and Clements surgery, said: "The money being saved by closing the Crown Centre is not being put back into Haverhill. The extra money we were offered was only for a limited period."

"The centre was put here because the town had unmet health care need, and they have not gone any way towards explaining what they are planning to do to meet that need."

Petition: Haverhill mayor Pat Hanlon with Cllr Maureen Byrne.

Picture: David Johnson 847936

"We have the classic situation with the PCT and the Clinical Commissioning Group standing side by side and both saying, it is not me, it is him. As we said right from the start, the money could have been so much better spent if they had built on existing structures. We would have got much more benefit from less money in the longer term."

"We are doing the best we can to provide services, but there has already been a significant increase in attendances leading up to the closure. Without other resources it is very difficult to do anything further."

Dr Cornish added: "We need the PCT and the CCG to support us and support Haverhill. Haverhill is taking a disproportionate and unfair amount of health service financial savings that have to be made in Suffolk."

Dog lover Jackie makes help plea

ANIMAL lover Jackie Sharpe is hoping others will help her raise the cash to enable a stray dog she met on holiday in Portugal to travel to a new home in Ireland.

Jackie of Mill Hill, Haverhill, is a cat lover and was previously featured in the Weekly News in April when her 10-month-old pet, Benson, died. She was told he had been poisoned, probably with antifreeze.

Jackie recently returned from a holiday in the Algarve, where she was struck by the number of stray dogs in the streets.

She said: "One caught my eye and we kept seeing him. At the last bar we went in I was sitting on the floor stroking him. A young Irish barmaid came over and I asked her if she fed him, as he seemed to know her. She explained that he was a street dog and was skin and bone when she started to feed him."

"He was quite tame and we both made a fuss of him. She had called him Ben and used to take him home, but stopped because she felt it was cruel as she will have to leave him when she goes home at the end of the summer."

She added: "I went home quite disturbed and could not sleep that night. I asked her if she could, would she take him home, and she said yes. I told her my plan and she threw her arms around me."

"Now I am back home, my plan is to find out how she can take him home and how much it will cost. A local lady who raises money for animal charities has agreed to give a small amount to help. We need to do it all properly and all I need is support from people out there to help me unite this poor, lonely, abused dog and a young girl with a big heart."

Anyone who can help should call Jackie on 07971 048278.

Public to view plan for homes project

AN exhibition is being staged of plans for 150 new homes as part of a research park development, so that local residents, businesses and community groups can give their views.

Leading house builder Taylor Wimpey is to create the homes as part of the Haverhill Research Park, after it acquired land that already has planning permission for 150 new homes, and is currently compiling detailed proposals for the development.

People can view these plans and have their say on the proposed scheme by attending a public exhibition at the Days Inn Hotel in Phoenix Road, Haverhill, between 2pm and 8pm on

BY JO DEEKS

Email: editor@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

Wednesday, August 8.

Feedback at the event will be used to help Taylor Wimpey refine its current proposals for the site before a detailed planning application is submitted to St Edmundsbury Borough Council in September.

Stephen Lee, planning manager for Taylor Wimpey East Anglia, says: "This development would fulfil a recognised demand for good-quality homes, including much-needed affordable housing in Haverhill."

"But, before we take our proposals any further, we are seeking the views of local people, businesses and community groups, who can find out more about the plans and provide their feedback by coming along to our public exhibition."

The proposed 9.17-acre development forms part of the wider Haverhill Research Park – a 30-acre site on the north-western fringes of the town designated for business and residential development.

The proposals for the new homes development include one and two-bedroom apartments, two, three, four and five-bedroom houses, 10% affordable housing, public open space, public cycle and footpaths, with access via the A1307. Anyone with queries about the event can email haverhillresearchpark@taylorwimpey.com.

Children given Olympic reading challenge

MORE than 4,000 children have already signed up to take part in an Olympic reading challenge this summer.

And there is still time to join the scheme.

Suffolk Libraries encourage children to read over the summer break by signing up for the nationwide Summer Reading Challenge. This year's challenge, Story Lab is a designated activity for the London 2012 Cultural Olympiad, challenging children to read stories from around the world.

Children can win bronze, silver and gold stickers by reading library books, including eBooks.

Children can take part in the challenge by visiting their local library where staff and volunteers will sign them up. The scheme is free of charge and every child will receive a membership card or pack.

The challenge involves reading six books over the summer to earn a gold medal. After registering, children can also do the challenge online.

Last year was the most successful so far. More than 7,300 children signed up in Suffolk, but organisers are hoping to beat that target this year.

Go to www.suffolklibraries.co.uk/storylab for news, reviews, games, competitions and booklists.

■ A NEW free service to help people deal with debt problems has been launched in West Suffolk. The impartial self-help service is designed to help people deal with credit debts they are struggling to repay, while giving them the skills they need to manage their money.

The 'CASHflow' initiative, funded with a £60,000 grant from the West Suffolk Partnership, offers people facing financial difficulties the opportunity to review their debts at an early stage and take action before they become unmanageable. Its aim is to give people the skills they need to negotiate with creditors and organise their own budget while avoiding more serious action, such as court judgements and bailiffs.

The scheme is being delivered through Citizens' Advice Bureaux (CABs) in Haverhill, Newmarket, Mildenhall, Sudbury and Bury St Edmunds. It uses an online programme, called CASHflow, to analyse an individual's income, outgoings and debts to create an approved financial statement.

CASHflow helps to prioritise debts and work out a programme of repayments before providing letter templates for people to send to their creditors making an affordable offer.

A small team of CASHflow volunteers has been fully trained to deliver the programme, while ongoing support and education programmes, such as budgeting workshops, are also available at Bury St Edmunds CAB to give people the skills to manage their money in the long term.

Janine Pinel, operations manager from Bury St Edmunds CAB, said: "Debt can have a devastating impact on people, leading to homelessness, relationship breakdowns, domestic violence and mental health problems.

"Our aim is to help people avoid those scenarios by working with them at an early stage to help them regain control over their debts and improve their budgeting skills for the future.

"The service we provide is free, non-judgemental and completely confidential. All you will need is access to a computer with a broadband connection, an email address, printer and reasonable level of IT skills. Unfortunately, CASHflow is not suitable for people who are self-employed.

"We would encourage anyone who meets these criteria and is worried about their finances to drop in and see how we can help."

John Griffiths, chairman of West Suffolk Partnership, said: "We are delighted that West Suffolk Partnership has been able to fund this valuable scheme.

"The current financial climate has left more and more people facing money difficulties – but this initiative will help them take back control and give them the skills they need to manage their budget in the long-term."

£400,000 plan for historic ruins

BY JO DEEKS

Email:
editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

HISTORIC castle ruins will be restored as part of a £400,000 scheme to protect two significant ancient monuments.

The Clare Castle ruins are the centrepiece of Clare Castle Country Park, a locally well used recreation site and popular visitor attraction.

The ruins at Greyfriars Dunwich are the most extensive structures that remain of the old town of Dunwich, which will also be restored.

Suffolk County Council has received confirmation that English Heritage is to provide more than £288,000 in grant funding to enable the medieval ruins at Greyfriars, Dunwich and Clare Castle to be restored and maintained for many years to come, with the additional £112,000 being provided by the county council.

The restoration of these important heritage assets will enable them to be put into a good state of repair as the county council seeks to transfer these sites to the local communities.

Cllr Lisa Chambers, Suffolk County Council's cabinet member for environment and property management, said: "I am delighted to see this significant investment being made by English Heritage to maintain these important elements of Suffolk's heritage.

By carrying out these important restoration works we are securing the historical legacy of these sites for generations to come"

English Heritage Team Leader for Suffolk, John Ette said: "English Heritage is committed to reducing historic sites at risk and we are very pleased to be working with Suffolk County Council and the local community to help fund these important conservation works. Clare Castle and Dunwich are nationally important monuments which make a significant contribution to our national story. These vital works should enable these sites to be removed from our Heritage Risk register and allow the public to continue to safely enjoy them."

The restoration works will involve building works to consolidate and weatherproof the castle keep and bailey walls at Clare, starting in mid August and due to be completed before the winter.

Visitors will continue to be welcome to both areas while these restoration works are carried out. There may be some disruption to access, but this will be kept to a minimum, and footpath closures with appropriate diversions will be in place.

MP saddles up for charity horseback challenge

AN MP has been up at the crack of dawn riding out with a top trainer in preparation for a horseback challenge.

As part of his preparations for the Newmarket Cavalry Charge, West Suffolk MP Matthew Hancock has ridden out with racehorse trainer Michael Bell, who has trained more than 1,000 winners in his career.

In preparation for the race, Matthew has already lost well over a stone in weight and has successfully passed two challenging fitness tests at the British Racing School. However, he is still learning to handle a racehorse from scratch, for which the help of experts like Michael is invaluable.

Matthew's odds to win are currently 25/1 with Blue Square, which is sponsoring the Cavalry Charge.

involving amateur jockeys to be ridden on the town's world famous July Course. The race is to be staged on August 18, just after 5pm, as part of the Horsemen and Heroes charity day.

The race will raise money for the charities Racing Welfare, which supports injured jockeys, and the Household Cavalry Operational Casualties Fund, which supports injured cavalymen. Matthew is raising money through his Just Giving page, which can be found at <https://www.justgiving.com/MatthewHancockMP>

Matthew said: "Riding out with Michael this morning was fantastic and I am grateful for the opportunity. I have been training very hard over the last two months and am really pleased with the results, so I'm looking forward to making it count on the 18th.

"I started out needing to lose 20 pounds. I've now got just four pounds to go in three weeks but it gets harder all the time.

"I would encourage everybody to come along to the race in August, and to donate generously to the two excellent charities."

Determined: crash victim Darren Betts has learned to talk and walk again, helped by mum Juliet.

Walk marks dash to save son's life

A MUM will retrace the 50-mile journey from the site of her son's car crash to hospital to raise money for the paramedics and doctors who saved his life.

Juliet Betts will also be highlighting the need for a helipad at Addenbrooke's when she sets off from Forward Green, near Stowmarket, to Addenbrooke's on August 22 – the first anniversary of 20-year-old Darren's accident.

Her local MP, Daniel Poulter, and Darren, who is known as Daz and has battled life-threatening injuries to walk again – have pledged to walk part of the route with her.

Juliet, 45, an A4E training tutor at Highpoint prison in Stradishall, will be collecting funds for the East of England Air Ambulance and for Addenbrooke's, both of which gave Daz lifesaving medical aid after a horrific car accident.

She said: "Daz was very lucky that the person who found him used to be an A&E nurse.

"Together with her quick thinking and the fact the air ambulance was able to respond so quickly, he had the best chance.

"Not many people know that Addenbrooke's does not have a helipad and I'd love to be able to contribute to that so that other lives may be saved."

Currently, air ambulance helicopters have to land on Gog Magog Golf Course, around two miles from the hospital, and patients – some in a life-threatening condition – have to be put into an ambulance to get to the hospital.

Politicians including Health Secretary Andrew Lansley have urged the hospital to get a helipad as soon as possible – the hospital says one will be provided on the roof of a new A&E department when it is built.

Juliet was at work when police arrived to tell her that Daz, then 19, had been airlifted to hospital.

He had life-threatening injuries, including a broken neck, and was on a life-support system for seven days.

Juliet and her family were warned that his injuries could leave him a paraplegic and for many months, Juliet could only hope for his recovery.

Daz left hospital in November and with hard work and support he learned to talk and walk again and recently even returned to his job as an electrical engineer.

Juliet will start the journey at around 12.30pm – the time her son was injured last year – and expects to arrive at Addenbrooke's on August 23.

Villagers commemorate Tour winner

A VILLAGE sign was given a topical addition to celebrate the Tour de France victory of cyclist Bradley Wiggins.

Nevil Speechley and his wife Gwyneth, who live in Over, were travelling through Suffolk countryside towards Newmarket when they spotted the sign as they entered the village of Great Bradley. They went back to take a photograph, so that they could share it with others.

Mr Speechley said: "We travelled past it and we stopped to get a picture because we thought it was quite topical. We were quite amused by it. It brought a smile to our faces, because we are both keen on cycling.

"It only took 110 years to see a British rider win, but not only did Bradley Wiggins win, but Chris Froome was second and Mark Cavendish won the last stage in Paris for the fourth time.

"We had taken our grandson to the Colne Valley Railway and were taking him home as my daughter lives over that side. We just followed the sat nav there and saw it quite by chance."

Radio star Daniel up for top honour

BY JO DEEKS

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

A 15-YEAR-OLD school boy who set up and runs his own radio station is in the running for a Young People of the Year award.

Daniel Bell, who attends Linton Village College, nominated himself for the award, but was endorsed by his form tutor and maths teacher Will Scheilling.

The winner of the Ferrier Pearce Young People of the Year top prize will receive £800 but there will be many other prizes from a prize pot of £2,000 put up by sponsors, including the police, Cambridgeshire communications experts Ferrier Pearce and Cambridge world leader in wireless technology CSR.

Daniel, who lives at Bumpstead Road, Haverhill, last year completed a 30-hour radio marathon in aid of the Teenage Cancer Trust and Bone Cancer Research, broadcasting from a tent in his garden, in memory of former Linton College pupil Jess Gower who died of cancer in December 2010.

It did not raise money, but was aimed at raising awareness.

Starting on August 6, Daniel,

On the mic: Daniel Bell is setting out to break a broadcasting record.

Callum Coleman and colleague Luke Tabram, will be starting a 70-hour marathon broadcast, an attempt at breaking the world record for the longest team broadcast set by Chris Moyles last year at 51.5 hours, which raised thousands of pounds for Comic Relief.

Dan hopes the marathon will raise £100 each for Teenage Cancer Trust and CLIC Sergeant.

When Daniel was 11, his friend Callum Coleman suggested he did a podcast, which he enjoyed. The pair then set up an online station, CDB, on a free website.

Dan decided to set up Haverhill FM, an internet broadcasting radio station from the bedroom of his home, launching in November. He owns and runs the station from its studio now based in Hollands Road.

He is trying to get an FM licence to broadcast over the airwaves to the town and reach a bigger audience.

Daniel presents many shows and has also trained others to help out in various roles, having recruited 20 volunteers.

Daniel said: "Having these young volunteers gives them something positive to do as well as teaching them skills, including organising events."

"We are helping the community by publicising the town, getting the public involved in events and helping charitable causes as well."

Any young person aged 10-25, who is a positive role model and gives to others, can be nominated. Entries close on August 31, and to nominate or for more information, visit www.yopey.org.

Appeal after dog attack

A WOMAN was bitten as she tried to protect her pet from being attacked by another dog. Police in Haverhill are appealing for a dog owner to come forward after the woman was injured in the incident, which occurred near the new pond on School Lane at around 7.35pm on July 21.

A brown dog with short fur attacked the victim's own dog, which she was walking in the area.

The woman, in her 30s, attempted to remove her dog from the attack when she was bitten on the forefinger, resulting in a bruise.

Neither dog was injured in the incident.

The owner of the offending dog is described as a white woman in her mid-fifties. She had brown bobbed hair and was carrying a red dog lead. Calls can be made to PC Matthew Egan on 101, or Crimestoppers on 0800 555 111.

Surgery date

COUNCILLORS Karen Richardson, St Edmundsbury Borough Council, and Cllr Anne Gower, Suffolk County Council, will be holding their surgery at Haverhill Library on Saturday, from 10am until noon. Contact Cllr Richardson on 01440 708856 and Cllr Gower on 01440 706402 for more information.

Tenants warned on benefits shake-up

TENANTS are being urged to make sure they keep landlords informed of any personal changes which could affect their benefits entitlement.

Tenants of Havebury Housing's 6,000 homes in the Haverhill and Bury St Edmunds area are reminded to keep in touch by the social housing provider in light of new welfare rules.

The Welfare Reform Act, which was passed in March, represents the biggest change to the benefit system for more than 60 years. New rules include the introduction of a Universal Credit to be paid directly to the claimant rather than the landlord and a "bedroom tax", also known as under-occupancy.

Havebury Chief Executive Karen Mayhew said: "The implications of the Welfare Reform Act will affect many of our tenants in a variety of ways. One of the main changes includes a reduction in Housing Benefit in certain circumstances.

"For example - if you are of working age, are in receipt of Housing Benefit and have bedrooms which are not in use for that purpose, you may be at risk of your benefit being reduced. Tenants will need to consider how they will make up any reductions to avoid arrears in their rent in this instance.

"We cannot promise that our tenants will not face difficulties as a result of welfare changes but we can promise to try to help as much as possible. To do this, we would ask tenants to keep us informed so we can advise them of any possible reductions in their benefit entitlement. We can also advise on how tenants can maximise their income, employability and enhance their training opportunities."

To this end, Havebury has introduced Keep in Touch, an initiative urging tenants to inform them of any change in personal circumstance. This could include having a baby, an elderly relative moving in or a child finishing full time education. It is also essential that Havebury has correct dates of birth for all occupants.

Mrs Mayhew said: "It is better for tenants to check if they are going to be affected rather than wait until they get into difficulty before asking for help. We have a dedicated team to support them."

Havebury tenants are invited to contact Welfare and Benefits Advisor Paul Finch on 0300 3300 900 or ask their rents advisor for an appointment. They can also call worklessness advisor Sarah-Jane Hatt or learning and employment adviser Lisa Aberly-Henning for help.

Artists show off skills

PAVEMENT art arrived in Haverhill as people got creative to help celebrate the start of the London Olympics.

Budding artists of all ages were invited to help create a giant Olympics Urban Canvas outside Haverhill Arts Centre last Friday afternoon, ahead of the Games' opening ceremony later that evening, which was being shown for free on the centre's big screen.

A huge chalk mural was created on the pavement and the volunteers were supplied with materials to help them add the colour to complete the work.

The event was just part of the extensive Summer in Haverhill programme staged by Haverhill Town Council, including family fun days, events and tribute concerts.

Haverhill Rovers: A fantastic club with a dedicated fan base like none other!

Rovers are legends who face 127th campaign

WHAT do Arsenal and the Haverhill Rovers have in common? Apart from their dedicated fan bases, both teams are an impressive 126 years old.

Unlike the Gunners, the Haverhill Rovers FC have plenty of local talent on their books, and the community team is currently searching for generous local sponsors for the new season.

Team manager Peter Betts says: "We're currently in the second year of our five-year plan and we're hoping for a good season. We've got some good young players, including player of the year Jamie Challis, but our first two matches of the season will be tough."

"We need support from the community; everyone can play their part. There's a wide range of advertising possibilities, from banners to kit sponsorship, to adverts in the programme, and now that the facility is open seven days a week instead of just one, it's a great way to reach people."

The team has been in its current location near the Samuel Ward Academy for two years, and you'll find it complete with a bar and refreshments for hungry supporters. Club merchandise will also be available when the season begins.

The Rovers will be donning their red strip for all their home games this season, and it promises to be an exciting season with everything to play for.

There are currently youth teams for boys and girls of all ages and Haverhill is an FA Charter standard community club.

Support: Fans socialise.

Anyone interested in joining a team should attend the Saturday morning football school at the New Croft. This runs every Saturday at 10.30am.

Visit the new grounds at the New Croft, Chalkstone Way, Haverhill. For more information call (01440) 702137 or visit www.pitchero.com and search for the Haverhill Rovers.

Families chart friendship across three generations

TWO families have been celebrating their town twinning links which span three generations.

Haverhill has been twinned with Pont-St-Esprit for 40 years and when the first family exchanges started in 1988, among the first group to come to England were mother and daughter Chantal and Laurence Rique. Laurence was 13 years old.

Since then they have visited Haverhill many times, both on official twinning visits and personal visits.

In May, Chantal and her husband, Jean, came to Haverhill for a week with PJ and Pat Sheehy, who have been their hosts since 1988.

This makes three generations of "Spiripontains" (the name the locals are called) who have continued the strong relationships that have developed over the years through the efforts of both town twinning associations.

They were welcomed to Haverhill by Elaine McManus, the chair of the Haverhill Town Twinning Association.

Elaine and her husband, Paul, are hosting a student, Alice Device, from Saint-Paulet-de-Caisson, a village near to Pont-St-Esprit.

Laurence said that during official visits, she felt that not enough time was spent in Haverhill.

Personal visits, like this one, have allowed the family to acquaint themselves properly with Haverhill – visiting the shops, walking around the market, seeing inside the churches – and getting a feel for the friendly atmosphere generated by the people of Haverhill.

Bonjour: from left, Alice Device, the student who is staying with Elaine, Elaine McManus, PJ Sheehy, Laurence Rique and her partner, Jeremy and three-year-old daughter Julie.

Leisure centre rolls out the holiday fun

ACTIVITIES ranging from pizza making to water fights will help keep youngsters amused at a leisure centre during their summer holidays.

Haverhill Leisure Centre has a programme for under eights, which includes making a pizza, the Kid City's Got Talent Contest, a London-themed arts and craft session to make Big Ben, London cabs and buses, a close-up experience with animals and much more.

For children aged 8 and over the School's Out Holiday Camps will have activities including cycling, swimming, football, tennis, laser blast and basketball.

The Abbeycroft team will also be providing activities for the free Haverhill Rovers Football Club family fun day on Wednesday, August 1 from 11am to 3pm and at the free Haverhill Rugby Club family fun day on Wednesday, August 15 from 11am to 3pm.

To end the summer holidays, youngsters can grab their water pistols and super soakers, for the Ultimate Water Fight at Haverhill Leisure Centre for five to 14-year-olds on Friday, August 31, from 2pm to 4pm.

Scooter theft boy in warning on security

BY JO DEEKS

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

A SCHOOLBOY who had his new scooter stolen while he was playing football with his friends is warning others to get their property security marked.

Kieran Thomas, 9, had saved up his own money to pay for the Slam Rage stunt scooter and was riding it around the green near his home in Westward Deals, Kedington, on the afternoon of Tuesday, July 3.

He left it in a nearby bush when he went to play football with his friends, but when he returned about half an hour later, it was gone.

He said: "I'm very upset as I'd saved up for it myself. I've learned that it's important to look after your stuff and that I'll have to be more careful."

"I've got a security marking pen from the police now and I think everyone should get their things security marked in case this happens to them."

You can contact your local Safer Neighbourhood Team (SNT) on 101 and talk to them about getting your bike, scooter or skateboard security marked.

You can then register your property on immobilise.com. Security marking can help police reunite you with your lost property if it is recovered.

Police are appealing for information about the scooter theft at Kedington. Kieran's Slam Rage stunt scooter had a black deck, red wheels and green handlebars.

Calls with information can be made to Pc Daniel Aston on 101, or Crimestoppers anonymously on 0800 555 111.

Upset: Kieran Thomas at the spot where his scooter was stolen near his home in Kedington.

Cover-up may lead to a former prime minister

Bobbie Neate says she suffered years of abuse at the hands of Louis Stanley, a respected figure on the Formula 1 racing circuit. Determined to discover the truth about her stepfather's mysterious past, she has uncovered what she believes is compelling evidence that he was, in fact, the illegitimate son of British Prime Minister Herbert Asquith and his secret lover.

Secrets to be told? Bobbie Neate is convinced her stepfather was the son of Herbert Asquith.

STARING at the photograph, Bobbie Neate couldn't believe her eyes. Here she was, looking at an image of Herbert Asquith – Britain's Prime Minister during the early years of the First World War – but all she could see was the face of her stepfather, Louis Stanley. Suddenly, everything began to make sense.

"I thought God, Louis looks just like him!" recalls Bobbie. "They just look so similar to me. Identical. It was as if a lightbulb had been turned on in my brain: everything slotted into place."

Throughout her life, Bobbie suspected that her domineering, abusive stepfather had a secret to hide. Always guarded, Louis would never talk about his childhood, snapping at anyone who dared to ask.

Now, after years of research, Bobbie believes that her stepfather's secret is more

BY EMMA HIGGINBOTHAM

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

shocking than she could possibly have imagined.

More than a century ago, ageing prime minister Asquith became besotted by Venetia Stanley, a stunning socialite some 35 years his junior. He wrote her hundreds of letters – as many as three a day, even during cabinet meetings – while never once writing to his sons fighting in France.

Yet although historians have long denied their relationship was sexual, Bobbie believes that not only were the couple involved in an intense physical relationship, but that Louis was the unwanted result of their clandestine affair.

Keen to share her findings, she has just published a book. Called Conspiracy of Secrets, it's a fascinating account of both her own life with Louis – a prolific non-fiction author and motor racing team manager – and her search to find the truth about his parentage.

Bobbie was just a toddler when her real father left the family, and her childhood memories are painful. Growing up with three older siblings in Cambridge's Trumpington Road, she lived in fear of Louis.

"In my view, he was a psychopath," she says. "He was able to change character so quickly, so one just didn't know where one stood. We became sort of 'yes children' because he was so frightening: you didn't dare put a foot wrong or annoy him in any way."

It wasn't just the children who felt Louis's wrath: his behaviour saw him barred from local shops, including department store Eaden Lilley, "and he used to go into Heffers and upset all the service girls," says Bobbie. "Mr Heffer used to dread him coming in because he'd have another girl in tears at the end of it. He was just really aggressive, unbelievably difficult."

Yet at other times, his personality was altogether different: "He was a comman," shrugs Bobbie. "On some days he could be utterly charming."

side, and hated her to go anywhere without him. "And everybody was banished from the house. If you had a neighbour coming round, they'd never come again, because he was so rude to them at the door."

Nor were the children's friends welcome: "You didn't really want people to come, because you knew that they'd never come again. You just felt deeply embarrassed about him. And certainly when I was older I didn't want my girlfriends to be in the same room with him. I didn't trust him."

It wasn't just Louis's temper that frightened Bobbie. Within three months of marrying her mother, she recalls how he began to abuse her sexually. Bobbie was just 5 years old.

The first time, she says, was at the Queen's Coronation. The family had driven to London for the occasion, and Bobbie was tremendously excited. But when Louis threw her on to his shoulders – ostensibly to give her a better view – his hands began to creep up her skirt. "I remember the huge disappointment, the worry of 'what on earth was he doing?' And this fear."

The abuse progressed, and Bobbie would dread her stepfather creeping into her bedroom, where he'd make her touch him: "I don't dare let myself remember too much about it, but I can remember the build-up," she says quietly. Finally, aged about 10, Bobbie was brave enough to take action, screaming until her mother came rushing in, "and he never did it again."

Bobbie went on to have a successful career as a lecturer and author of non-fiction children's books, and tried to put Louis out of her mind.

"Then about 20 years ago, we children had this conversation about 'well who do you think his father was? Where did he come from?'"

"I said 'he acts just like the illegitimate son of an MP', and we half-heartedly looked up all the Stanley MPs of the time, but none of them seemed to fit."

But that photograph of Asquith really struck a chord: "and then I thought, oh no, he's not the right age, because obviously we'd looked at MPs who were father-bearing age. Asquith's quite a bit older". He would have been nearly 59 when Louis was born.

Bobbie let it go. But when her mother had a stroke in late 2000, everything changed. Louis began to behave erratically, banning Bobbie from the house. Lawyers became involved, and the situation grew ugly. Frustrated, Bobbie turned to her friend Henrietta for support.

"She was one of my props: I was in a very bad way," says Bobbie. For the first time, she began to talk openly about Louis, voicing her suspicions about his background. "Then by chance Henrietta went to her mother's house, and there was this book sitting on the coffee table: it was the letters of Asquith to Venetia Stanley. She picked it up and thought 'Oh, I wonder...'"

"So that's how it all happened. From that moment I was absolutely convinced, with remembering the photograph and looking at it again, that that's where he came from."

Bobbie began to research her theory, a project that took her from the streets of Liverpool to the library of Trinity College, via golf courses, records offices and stately homes. The more she read, the more the names casually dropped by Louis over the years began to rise to the surface.

She also recalled a childhood trip to Venetia's former home, Alderley Hall. "Everything absolutely fitted in," she says. "It was childhood coming alive, almost."

Researching Louis, Bobbie could find no trace of his father, 'Mr Stanley', in any official records, and discovered that the street where he claimed he was born in didn't actually exist. A further lightbulb moment was discovering that Louis's mother, in her mid-40s at the time of his birth, was from a poor family of cotton factory workers – yet Louis had had the upbringing of a wealthy boy, which included golf lessons and private schooling.

Bobbie was also struck by the similarities in Louis and Asquith's personalities: "like a wonderful speaking voice. Louis had a politician's ability to just stand up and talk, and could do speeches without any effort."

Then there was their impressive mental skill: Asquith was renowned for his remarkably good memory: "And Louis' was amazing. He could remember everything anybody had said. He knew all the ins and outs of Cambridge too: he actually was asked to set questions for Mastermind, and the poor candidate couldn't answer any questions at all!"

But it was reports of Asquith's appetite for younger women that particularly chilled Bobbie. She speaks about the "horrible, horrible" account by socialite Lady Ottoline Morrell. And, when the affair with Venetia was over, adds Bobbie,

"the fact he wrote to both (socialite) Diana Cooper and Venetia's sister, suggesting that they took Venetia's place! He was just like Louis. Mad about sex."

One fact that simply can't be in doubt, says Bobbie, is that the relationship between Asquith and Venetia was sexual. In the book, she quotes letters in which he signs off as 'your lover', and at one point urges Venetia to 'take a solitary walk tomorrow, beloved, to our dear little hollow and think of me and our heavenly hour there...'. She also points to a period when Venetia and her mother were in Germany, when she could conceivably have borne a child undetected.

So why wouldn't Louis, an inveterate show-off, have boasted about his lineage? "Because at the time illegitimacy wasn't a thing to be proud of," says Bobbie. "I personally believe that he saw Venetia and his blood family, and it was all part of a big lie: he was part of the family, but outside it."

Louis died in 2005, aged 92. But his legacy lives on, so much so that Bobbie, who now lives in Winchester, avoids coming to her home town.

Yet, she says, writing the book has been cathartic – and she's bracing herself for the reaction from the establishment.

"I think that historians and supporters of Asquith want this story to go away, because we've got a British Prime Minister having an affair with a young girl when our troops were being mowed down. "I'm always frightened of saying it, because I'm not a sensationalist, but it is a huge cover-up. In my view there's no doubt."

Ahead of his Audley End appearance, Jools Holland tells JENNIFER SHELTON why listening to live music outdoors is a joy as old as the hills, pays tribute to Amy Winehouse and considers who his ideal Later... guests would be.

Crown Jools

MUSIC is the greatest art form there is, according to pianist, band leader and broadcaster Jools Holland.

But then, having spent his life surrounded by it – from first hearing his parents' jazz and blues records around the house to performing live for the Queen at her diamond jubilee concert – he would say that. But so, he explains, would the Ancient Greeks.

"Playing music and dancing to music in an outside setting is something that the ancients recognised," he says, ahead of his appearance at Audley End this month.

"When you see a smashed-up Greek urn that someone's glued back together in the British Museum or something, often that's exactly what the pictures depict. They worked out that the simpler it is, the better it is, and hopefully that's what we're going to have – music and dancing in what couldn't be a more picturesque location."

Holland will be performing as part of the Summer Concert Series at the stately home with his 20-piece rhythm and blues orchestra, which he has been with for as almost 50 years.

"It's remarkable, I realised this year that the orchestra has been together about 20 years and it's been mostly the same people all that time. We're like a big family. Occasionally new people come in: we've got ska legend Reggie Rodrique as part of the orchestra, who brings a very special element and personality to it, and singers like the legendary Ruby Turner, who's one of the greatest blues and boogie singers around today. And Gilson Lavis, who used to be in Squeeze with me, plays a special part. Speaking of which, we've heard that Chris Difford will also be with us for this show."

Before his role as band leader and TV presenter for Later... With Jools Holland, the Londoner came to prominence as keyboardist for British pop band Squeeze, playing in small London pubs and clubs until catching the attention of BTM Records.

Laughing, Holland tells me about a recent catch-up with bandmate Chris Difford:

"I was out with Chris at the weekend and somebody had sent him some Super 8 footage of Squeeze playing at the Jubilee concert in 1977 (Coming full circle, Holland also performed at the Queen's diamond jubilee concert this year). We were playing outside a pub and it's great because I had no idea how different it all looked. It was like a 1970s film. London looked so strange – like The Sweeney or something."

A career in music was probably inevitable, coming from a musical family and showing an interest in his parents' records from an early age. Holland started learning the piano at 8, demonstrating a natural ear, and catching up on the theory side later while at school.

"My mother used to play the piano a little bit and sing old blues songs. My parents were very young when they married," he explains, "and they both liked black jazz and blues records so they had those around the house. And my uncle, my mother's younger brother, played boogie-woogie piano in a little London rhythm and blues group and when I first heard him play, for me all the chaos of the universe became ordered for that moment. I thought this was the best thing I'd ever heard and asked if he could show me how to do it, which he did, and I've spent the rest of my life trying to figure it out."

"I ended up with two careers really," he continues.

"While I was in Squeeze I also started doing my own thing. My manager at the time, who was also the manager of The Police, got me to do a little film about The Police and that opened the door into another world. I was 24 or 25 when all that happened but it just seemed to fit.

Broadcasting and touring – they're part of the same thing. My shows have always been to do with music because I can only be me, really. I'm not an actor."

That early opportunity led to a career presenting music shows, first with The Tube in Newcastle, then on his own show, Later... With Jools Holland, which began broadcasting in 1992 and has seen him give countless new or lesser-known talents a prominent platform.

"It's fantastic to have the opportunity to do that," he says. "As well as new talent it's also about bringing forward someone who might be well-known in their own sphere but not perhaps in a broader sense."

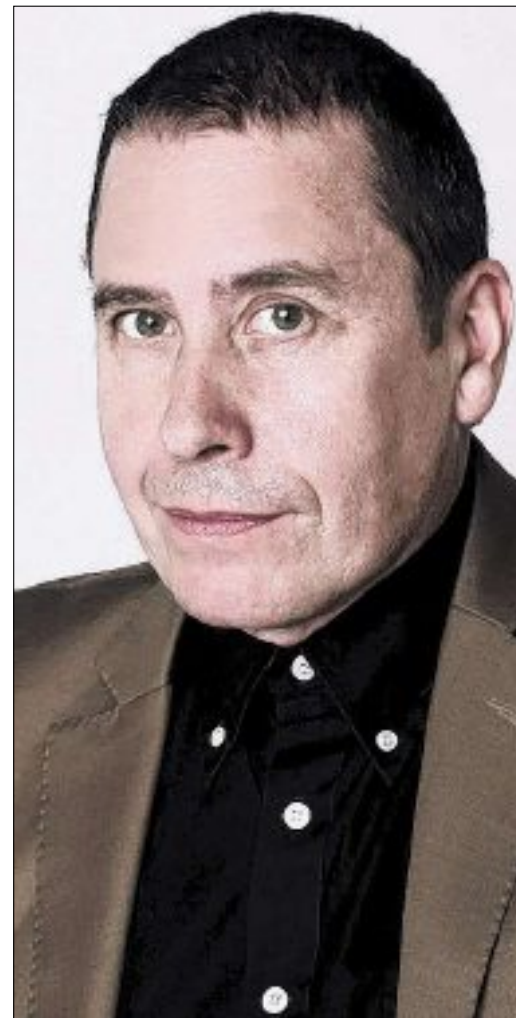

Who stands out as really memorable guests?

"All of them really," he reflects. "I loved Amy Winehouse, we were good friends. She was a great talent, God rest her soul. That was a great loss – she was like one of the great people from another age."

His passion for a great musical soul is clear when he answers immediately my next question, asking who he'd have on the show if he could pick anyone, from any era.

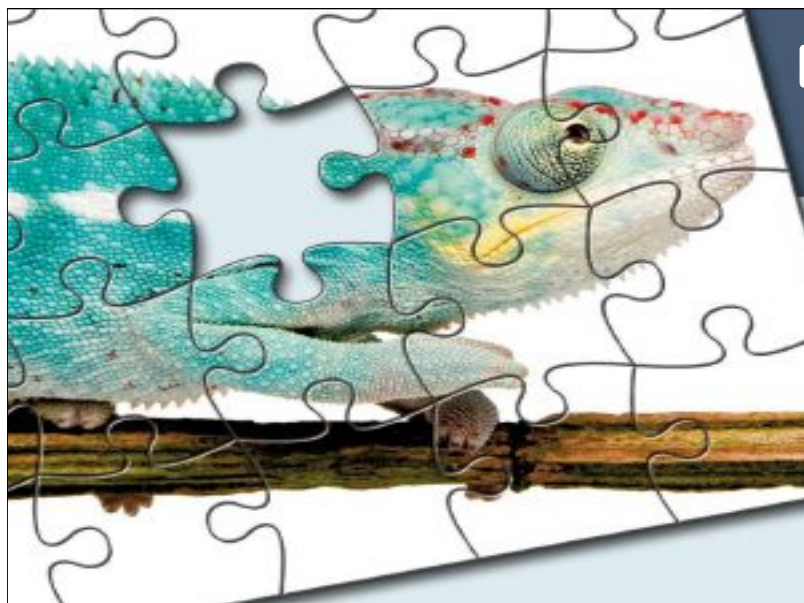

"I'd love to have Betty Smith on, and Bach and The Beatles – but when they were just in Hamburg – and that's just the Bs! I shan't tire you with the rest of the alphabet."

One of my good points are my legs which are, although I say it myself, superb . . .

She's weary of touring and doesn't like the character she's playing one bit, but the former Dynasty femme fatale is still possessed by a love of acting, she tells JENNIFER SHELTON.

ONE imagines a decadent dressing room filled with furs, lipsticks in every shade of crimson and perhaps a lover or two pawing at the door to get in. That's pure speculation, of course, but there's something tremendously glamorous about Kate O'Mara, even at 72. The way she talks, in a clear, RP drawl, laced quite frequently with wicked wit and fearless honesty is, alone, like a glimpse into the golden age of television, where hair was high, shoulders were sharp and everyone was rather gorgeous.

She begins with "Hello my darling," as I'm put through to her dressing room, where she's preparing to go on stage for that afternoon's performance of Agatha Christie's Murder on the Nile. She was in her 27th week of touring and was well, somewhere in the north.

"At the moment I'm – where am I? – I'm in Bradford," she remembers. "We're a bit frayed around the edges to be perfectly frank. It's a bit of an endurance test: it's not the play, it's the travelling. But going to a place like Cambridge (their last leg of the tour) is lovely."

"It's going very well, people seem to be enjoying it," she continues. "With Agatha Christie people know they can bring the family and they're going to be in for a good time without having to suffer too much." She gives a throaty laugh. "Even if they've seen it before – which is very likely, because they're always showing the damn thing on television."

O'Mara is in the role of Helen Ffoliot-Ffoukes for this latest production. The name says it all, and O'Mara agrees – a little more forcefully than I'm expecting.

"She's a ghastly woman. She's a snob and a bully and shouts a lot and I don't enjoy playing her at all. If I'd known what the part was I wouldn't have accepted it," she says frankly. "But I accepted the job before I'd read the script because I remembered that Bette Davis had played the part in one of the movies so I assumed it would be all right . . . but of course although she played the same character, being Bette Davis she probably had the lines rewritten to suit her anyway. But never mind!"

Having noticed some rather dashing hats in the publicity shots, I ask about the costumes. Do they offer any consolation?

"Um, yah, well . . . the costumes are 1932 but because I'm playing a slightly older woman," she accentuates good-naturedly, "mine are not quite so fashionable. I have to wear very long skirts which is a pity because one of my good points are my legs which are, although I say it myself, superb. You can just about see my ankles . . ."

Murder on the Nile, the stage adaptation of Christie's novel

Death on the Nile, was first performed in the West End in 1944. Set on board a steamer, it sees a young couple's honeymoon dampened as they are pursued by an old flame of the groom's. Then, when a body is found, holidaying cleric Canon Pennyfather becomes their only hope of solving the case.

While she may not be enamored of her latest character, O'Mara certainly isn't a stranger to playing vicious females, from the scheming Cassandra 'Caress' Morell in 80s' camp classic Dynasty to the Doctor's recurring foe, The Rani, in Doctor Who.

"I always seem to play those sorts of parts. It's partly to do with the way I look and the way I sound, which is uncompromising, really. But they are the best parts."

Dynasty had been running for one series before O'Mara sauntered into the picture as Joan Collins's manipulative sister. Ratings went through the roof from then on.

"It was a hoot, a total hoot. One was just expected to look as beautiful and flawless as possible – they weren't interested in one's character or one's acting, they wanted somebody as a foil for Joan Collins."

She adds: "The only television I'm offered now are those dreadful reality and celebrity things which I will not go near."

Having dismissed the idea of seeing out her career on reality TV, I wonder if she plans to retire.

"People do ask that, but we actors don't retire," she declares, grandly. "Doubtless I shall keep on going until I pop my clogs."

news from

BLUNDERBUS Theatre makes a welcome return to Haverhill today with The Selfish Crocodile, a delightful stage adaptation of the best-selling children's story by Faustin Charles and Michael Terry. Deep in the forest, by the banks of a great river, lived a large crocodile. He was a very selfish crocodile and he wouldn't share this river with any of the other creatures. He thought it was his river, so the animals stayed away. But one day there was a terrible scream. The crocodile had a toothache. Nobody dared to help him, until a brave little mouse found a clever way to solve this snappy dilemma. This is a funny, heart-warming tale with a very happy ending, which reminds us all that the smallest act of kindness often has the greatest impact. This funny forest adventure about a crocodile and a brave little mouse lasts for 50 minutes and has real bite. The show starts at 2pm, so make it snappy!

Entertainment for the children during the summer break includes The Pea, The Bean and The Enormous Turnip by Storybox Theatre on Tuesday, August 14, at 2pm. A glorious tapestry of tales – a pea who finds a real princess, a tale of the biggest turnip in the world and the tale of a bean who runs away to find fame and fortune, this is storytelling and puppeteering to transport you into an extraordinary world of magic and the imagination. On Friday, August 24, at 2pm meet Sergei Prokofiev's world famous characters in Peter and the Wolf and be led into an enchanting storybook world with this energetic and fun adaptation by Sealegs Puppet Theatre, told with puppets with invention and a brilliant musical score. There are no events scheduled in the main hall this week due to our annual maintenance programme.

The big film

TED
CERTIFICATE 15, 1h46m

THE teddy bear is a potent symbol of childhood innocence. But in Ted it is also the focal point for a series of deranged and debauched misadventures.

Child and toy become inseparable in this deliciously foul-mouthed comedy that employs the magic of digital trickery to bring to life a stuffed bear as a buddy for a lonely boy. It's a simple premise, essentially a live action version of Toy Story albeit with the eponymous bear accepted as a talking, skirt-chasing entity by everyone he encounters.

Writer-director Seth MacFarlane, creator of the irreverent animated comedies Family Guy and American Dad!, has great fun with his real and virtual characters, taking verbal pot shots at Susan Boyle, Taylor Lautner and Superman actor Brandon Routh in a script that gleefully sticks up two fingers to political correctness. It's Christmas 1985 and a boy called John Bennett (Bretton Manley) stares adoringly at his favourite teddy and whispers: "I wish you could talk. Then we could be friends forever and ever."

Just at that moment a shooting star passes overhead and the next morning John introduces the exceedingly animated Ted (voiced by MacFarlane) to his dumbfounded parents (Ralph Garman, Alex Borstein).

The film then fast-forwards to the present day. John (Mark Wahlberg) now works for a car rental company and has a beautiful girlfriend, Lori (Mila Kunis).

When their four-year anniversary dinner ends in a fractious discussion about priorities, John responds by asking his best buddy to move out of the apartment and stand on his own two paws.

Ted has a generous smattering of belly laughs, although some of the best moments have been repeated ad nauseum in trailers. Wahlberg is perfectly suited to his role as a goofy hopeless romantic and screen chemistry with Kunis Simmers, if it never quite boils.

Digital effects are excellent, seamlessly melding the bear with live action in hare-brained action sequences, including a hysterical hotel room punch-up and a climactic race around a sporting venue that may have grown men choking back tears.

And a running gag about a classic 1980 film results in a wonderful cameo to fan the flames of our wistful nostalgia.

DON'T MISS OUT – PUT A DATE IN YOUR DIARY NOW!

Summer rain may be a blessing

by Hannah Stephenson

IF you've been looking outside recently and despairing at your soggy mass of potted petunias, drowning dahlias and other beleaguered bedding, there is light at the end of the tunnel.

Yes – the cool, rainy weather of June and July has battered plants and made us all miserable this summer, but the increased moisture in the ground could lead to a floriferous autumn, says garden designer Chris Beardshaw, a regular panellist on BBC Radio 4's Gardeners' Question Time.

"The good news is that there's a lot of trees and shrubs and hedges which have benefited from the deluge," says Beardshaw, a Cheshire's Garden of Distinction ambassador and exhibitor at the recent show at RHS Tatton Park.

"Trees that had struggled with several dry springs and winters were starting to yellow early and suffer dieback in the crown and stunted growth. Now, they are very lush and there's plenty of growth."

"I've got acers and limes in the garden that have put on more growth this year than I've ever seen. Deep-rooted, woody and resilient specimens that are used to the temperature variations that we've had will do well."

Trunks will be full of moisture, taking in water-soluble nutrients and Beardshaw would be hesitant about feeding woody stock, although you'll still need to feed lawns, he advises.

"Put autumn food on lawns because shallower rooted plants have lost nutrients from their root zones. Anything that's shallow is going to be going yellow."

He reckons that anyone who's grown tomatoes, aubergines and cucumbers outside will struggle to get any sort of harvest because of the cooler weather and lack of insects to pollinate the flowers.

"We've seen a huge reduction in bees, butterflies, hoverflies and ladybirds which have been hit by two harsh winters and then a very wet summer. It's posing a threat to their population."

Faster growing crops such as lettuces should be fine if you can keep the explosion of slugs off them, he adds.

"For indoor tomatoes, it would be worth removing some of the leaves to expose the fruits because we haven't had high light levels, so the fruits won't ripen as quickly and the skins of tomatoes will go leathery."

If the foliage of conifers goes yellow, dig a small hole at the base of the plant and check the drainage is good enough, because they hate to be waterlogged.

RAINFALL:
Many plants have benefited from the deluge of the past few weeks, says garden designer Chris Beardshaw.

On the plus side, the crowns of wild geraniums, astilbes and lupins have bulked up in the wet weather. Even if we don't get much flower, next year we'll benefit from the amount of root growth and leaf generation that those sorts of perennials have put on, he says.

"Roses have done very well, too. They don't mind wet ground and heavy soils, so there are some winners."

Summer annuals may have taken a hammering in the rain, but if you give them a good trim, then you may well see them bloom later, especially if there is any warmer weather on the way.

"Don't be afraid to trim them back because if we do get a burst of warmth they will have established themselves in the pots and if we give them a bit of a haircut and pinch out any faded flowers, as soon as the temperature increases you will have a massive potential of enthusiasm in the pot and the plant will react."

In the last few seasons we've had long, mild autumns, when annual bedding has come into its own.

"A sniff of warm bright weather towards the end of August could lead to late bedding displays, if you can keep the slugs off them."

Many plants will be flowering late, he predicts.

"We can expect a second flush of flowering on pears, rhododendrons and camellias, taking advantage of any warmer conditions in autumn."

"I just have a gardener's sniff that it's going to be a good autumn," he smiles, ever the optimist.

HONDA

The Power of Dreams - and the reality of reliability

Japan's cars top reliability poll

JAPANESE cars are the most reliable, according to a new survey.

What Car? and Warranty Direct research has revealed that Honda is the most reliable used car brand in the UK for the seventh consecutive year.

Honda, Toyota and Lexus cars took the first three places in the reliability table, based on 50,000 Warranty Direct policies for cars between three and 10 years old, which showed that Hondas have only a 10 per cent chance of breaking down in any given 12-month period.

The rate for Toyota was 17 per cent and for Lexus 18 per cent, with Japanese models dominating the top 10 in the reliability table.

In contrast, Land Rover was 36th and last in the table for reliability, with a breakdown rate of 71 per cent.

Luxury cars such as Jaguar (43 per cent breakdown rate) and Mercedes-Benz (45 per cent) were towards the bottom of the table.

Just one non-Far East manufacturer – Chrysler – made it into the top 10. It also has the lowest average repair bill, £227, of the most reliable marques. Unsurprisingly, Porsche models are the most expensive to repair, with an eye-watering average garage bill of £623.

What Car? editor in chief Chas Hallett said: "Reliability is so important to motorists, especially when times are tough. Japanese car makers really do deliver on reliability and Honda is exceptionally good at this."

"What will be surprising to many is the fact that several of the more desirable brands did not fare so well regarding reliability, and the cost of their repairs are high. They need to do better."

The full table shows the average mileage at which the marque's models break down, and the subsequent

Local heroes set off on Baltic odyssey

TEN DAYS ago a Mineral Blue 1969 MGB roadster began an awesome 5,300 mile journey to the Baltic Sea.

Departing from the MG Owners' Club HQ in Swavesey, Will Punchard, aged 29 and Jon House, 30, aim to drive through a total of 13 countries.

Jon's father sadly passed away from leukaemia last year, so all money raised will go to The Leukaemia and Lymphoma Research, a charity which is dear to both of their hearts.

Will, who works in the spares department at the MG Owners' Club, said that the iconic British Sports car was the only real choice when planning a journey of this size.

His companion for the route, Jon, an archaeologist, said he feels relaxed about the trip, but is worried about bears.

The duo, who have already raised more than £3,250, will spend their days driving through the sights of Belgium, Germany, Russia and Poland (to name a few) and by night will camp in tents alongside the car.

Brighter: The new Fiat 500 in Countrypolitan Yellow.

New colours for Fiat 500

THE popular Fiat 500 city car, which recently smashed through the 100,000 sales mark in the UK (more than 102,000 at the end of June), has been further improved with a range of bold new colours and upgraded interior trims that better match the exterior.

Six stunning new colours are introduced: Countrypolitan Yellow and New Age Cream solid paints, and Groove Metal Grey, Epic Blue, Chillout Purple and Idol Pink metallics.

New Chocolate brown/Ivory fabric and Grey/Black fabric interior trim has also been introduced for the interior. New two-tone leather trims will be available at the end of the year, replacing and enhancing the current leather finishes.

A new 'short-fin design' antenna and 15-inch alloy wheels are also part of the design upgrade. Despite the product improvements, prices for the Fiat 500 have not changed, and the car still represents outstanding value for money.

The Fiat 500 range starts at £9,960 for the 1.2 Pop, rising to £19,060 for the 500CbyGucci TwinAir.

As claims fall, broker cuts cost of insurance

AN insurance broker is offering big discounts on motor insurance for those who have owned their vehicle for at least four years, after seeing a dramatic fall in claims.

Adrian Flux Insurance Services has pledged to beat virtually any quote until the end of August where the driver has owned the vehicle for at least four years and has had no fault claims in the past 12 months. It is further good news for hard-pressed motorists after research showed that car insurance premiums have fallen for the second consecutive quarter.

The average cost of car insurance between April and June was £797, compared with £816 in the first three months of the year – a decline of 2.3 per cent.

And Gerry Bucke, general manager at Adrian Flux, said the summer sale was the result of a steep decline in claims from motorists who keep hold of their car, van or motorhome.

"We've noticed a massive drop, so these are clearly the type of people who deserve to be paying less for their insurance – and the motorists we want on our books," he added.

"Our records show that a lot of accidents happen within the first year of owning a vehicle, and they fall away significantly after the fourth year."

"It's partly down to experience, and it probably says a lot about the more steady type of person who doesn't chop and change their vehicle all the time."

The number of fraudulent claims, a major contributor to the rise in premiums in recent years, is also virtually non-existent among longer-term owners.

"All of these factors combined have enabled us to reduce our rates this summer for this group, subject to our usual underwriting criteria," added Mr Bucke.

General Vacancies

Electrical Engineering Manager

Starting salary range £28,409 p.a. to £31,565 p.a. On call allowance of £2,000 p.a.

The Babraham Institute is a charity which is world renowned for its research in life sciences to enhance lives and improve wellbeing.

A vacancy has arisen to head the electrical section of Babraham Campus Engineering Department (BCE). BCE is responsible for the building and engineering maintenance of most buildings on the Babraham Campus site.

The successful candidate should have a minimum of an HNC/HND in electrical engineering and have extensive experience of maintaining electrical services and equipment, preferably with experience of a research institute, local authority/government, or health service type of establishment. The Campus has its own HV ring main, therefore the successful candidate should have a thorough understanding of both HV and LV distribution systems, as well as an intimate knowledge of the current edition of the IEE Electrical regulations.

The Electrical Engineering Manager is responsible for the campus building management and fire alarm systems, therefore a thorough and in depth knowledge of Trend's 963 BMS is an essential pre-requisite as well as knowledge of the different types of fire alarm systems. For further information on the post contact Stephen Woolverton, Head of Engineering on 01223 496285.

Further information about the Institute can be found on our website. Application forms and further details are available electronically from our website (www.babraham.ac.uk), or by contacting our 24-hour Recruitment Line on 01223 496365, or e-mail: babraham.personnel@babraham.ac.uk. On applying please quote reference EEM/SW/C. Closing date for completed applications is Wednesday 15th August 2012. NO AGENCIES PLEASE

The Babraham Institute is a user of the disability symbol and is positive about disabled people.

The Babraham Institute receives strategic funding from the Biotechnology and Biological Sciences Research Council and is an Equal Opportunities Employer.

COMMUNITY NAVIGATOR PROJECT POSTS Fixed term for 3 years

Care Network Cambridgeshire is a local charity committed to improving the lives of older and vulnerable people. Our Community Navigator work requires new staff to help improve the information and access to provision which older people need to remain active and independent.

Community Navigator County Manager

37 hr/week £28,455
Based at our head office in Hardwick, you will build and lead a team of six staff to identify, train support and monitor individuals to act as Community Navigators. These volunteer navigators will enable older people to access activities and services to maintain their quality of life and independence. You will have knowledge of adult health and social care policy and practice, experience of starting or expanding other projects and ideally of leading a local public or voluntary sector team.

Community Navigator District Coordinators

37 hr/week (5 posts) £21,700
As part of the Care Network Community Navigator team you will identify, train support and monitor individuals to act as Community Navigators – see above. There are opportunities to be based in Cambridge, Hardwick, Ely, Wisbech or Huntingdon. You will have experience of working in community development, adult health or social care, or a similar role. You will be enthusiastic and motivated to improve the lives of older and vulnerable people. Voluntary sector experience would be an asset.

Community Navigator Project Support Officer

30 – 37 hr/week £20,410 pro rata
You will provide administrative support for the Community Navigator team and help them meet requests for the service – see above. You will have excellent IT skills and be able to use data to produce powerful and meaningful reports. You need to be well-organised, a good communicator, numerate, reliable and discreet.

For application pack email admin@care-network.org.uk or call 01954-211919. Closing date: 12.00 midday on 20 Aug 2012. Interviews W/B 27 Aug. Care Network, Broadway House, 149-151 St Neots Rd, Hardwick, Cambridge, CB23 7QJ. Charity number 1120693; registered in England & Wales.

There are also vacancies for volunteers to visit older people for 2-3 weeks to provide practical help in the home or support after a stay in hospital. Contact details as above for information.

Are you looking to be a Recruitment Revolutionary?

We are a leading independent recruitment agency, who is fast tracking its way to the top. Already with offices in Cambridge, Exeter, Norwich and Bristol, we are not just stopping there. We have grown by the quality of service and are known for not compromising on this. We operate in the permanent, temporary and contractor markets, servicing the following sectors, which include: Construction, M & E and Technical.

As a recruitment consultant with us, your role would be to embrace new and existing business customers throughout the area through 'intelligent' sales and marketing campaigns, holding cutting edge presentations, winning business, sourcing star talent candidates, interviewing and coaching candidates and matching skills and cultures together for a win-win situation!

We do dare to be different and simply love what we do, so you will need to be the type of person who enjoys an incredibly fast paced role, who can successfully prove that you can meet big goals and that you really do have a genuine love for recruitment. After all, you are dealing with people's lives and businesses so we are looking for raw drive, integrity and passion coupled with the desire to be part of the team.

Recruitment expertise would give you an extra brownie point however, our promise from the outset has always been to find the behaviour first as we can train you in recruitment. We will lead you, coach you and train you - the rest is up to your drive and resilience - we are all really busy so if you do not have a get up and go attitude and need pushing constantly then this probably isn't the role for you.

Your career development is important to us and we have ensured that there are clear and open development paths for all, whether that be progressing to a Manager, Divisional or Regional Manager or even Director. Because our success is your success.

To apply please send your CV plus covering letter to the Recruiting Manager:
info@trilliumassociates.co.uk or Trillium Associates, 2nd Floor Offices, 4 Adkins Chambers, Adkins Corner, Perne Road, Cambridge, CB1 3RU.

It's an El of a win for Kevin!

KEVIN Eldred conquered a tough set-up to win the Haverhill Golf Club Seniors' Championship.

The course provided a tough test with narrow fairways and fast greens. That, coupled with the sweltering conditions, yielded just one nett par round from the entire field.

Eldred won the Chris Briggs Scratch Trophy for the lowest gross score with 80-8-72.

Winning the Paul Wallace Handicap Trophy was David Roope with 84-14-70, while the Mick Turner Veterans' Cup for entries aged 70 and over went for the second year running to Dennis White (91-18-73).

■ David Hiscox was the overall winner of the R Brown Cup, a 36-hole medal event.

The event was open to all handicap divisions and there were some excellent scores during the morning, notably Steve Rex's 78-16-62, reducing his handicap by two in the process.

But Hiscox took the victory – the first event he has won since joining Haverhill last year – with a superb 64+71=135, trimming his handicap by two shots.

In second on countback was Michael Elsworth with 70+69=139, ahead of Andy Gage on 67+72=139.

■ Matthew Cullen was three points clear of his nearest rival in winning the IFF Challenge Stableford competition.

Matthew Cullen registered

42pts, reducing his handicap by two shots.

Results – Division One: 1 Eric Armstrong 39pts, 2 Kim Ward 38pts, 3 Michael Perrett 37pts. Division Two: 1 David Seal 37pts, 2 Frank Smith 35pts, 3 Allen O'Donoghue 34pts. Division Three: 1 Matthew Cullen 42pts, 2 Conor O'Brien 37pts, 3 Paul Mower 35pts.

■ Haverhill Seniors had mixed results in their latest batch of friendlies.

They drew 4-4 away to Ely City, following it up with an identical score at home against Flemspton.

They beat Hintlesham 5-3 at home, before losing by the same score at Fynn Valley.

An 8-6 defeat at Bourn was followed by a 5-3 away defeat at the hands of Flemspton, a ½-7½ thrashing away to The Essex and a 7-1 reverse at Newton Green.

Anthony's innings gives Haverhill a lift

■ From back page
Abington's Stuart Duquemin taking 3 for 24 and hitting 45.

He was well supported by James Lawrence with 40 not out as Abington reached 118 for 6 (Joe Woodley 3 for 16). But Simon Youngs hit 26 as Haverhill responded with 119 for 6.

Weston Colville look like going down after Haverhill bowled them out for just 37, Nigel Brunning taking 4 for 3 and Anthony Phillips 4 for 6. Haverhill raced to 40 for 2 in reply. Hundon (114 for 9) lost to Saffron Walden (115 for 4).

Promotion in Division 3W is between Linton, Mill Green and Sawston II.

Linton hold pole position after victory over second-placed Mill Green, scoring 174 for 5 before holding their opponents to 142 for 4.

Sawston II enjoyed routine victories over

Ickleton and Ashdon to stay in contention in third place.

Mark Collins took 5 for 17 and scored 50 not out as Ashdon (110 for 5) had a welcome win against Helions Bumpstead (107 for 9). The beaten side, however, did overcome Wrattling Lions.

Balsham saw off Ickleton's score of 57 for 9 in 9.1 overs for the loss of one wicket, Steve Saunders hitting 27.

Shield winners prepare for defence

AFTER winning the Suffolk Shield and being accepted back into Eastern Counties League Division Two, Haverhill Rugby club have got a lot to prove this season.

The rugby season starts on August 25 with two friendlies, while the club starts its defence of the shield on September 15 against Mildenhall.

Pre-season training is now under way, under the instruction of the club's new head coach, Jake Jeffs, who has been part of the club for many years, progressing from the junior ranks to become a first XV regular.

Training sessions take place at the Castle Playing Fields on Tuesday and Thursday nights from 7pm.

The sessions are open to anyone who wishes to learn to play rugby or wants to get back into the sport – please come along and ask for Jake or David.

On August 11, from 11am to 6pm, the club is having an open day to welcome anyone who wishes to play, or to join the club as a social member.

The committee will be on hand to answer questions, and Olympic action will be shown on the big screen in the bar.

■ Youth training sessions have now started on Wednesdays from 7pm and Sundays from 10.30am, and are open to all children aged 13 to 16.

New players of any capabilities are welcome – please come along to one of the training sessions and ask for Adrian Cooper.

■ The new season for junior rugby will start on Sunday September 2 from 9.30am at Castle Playing Fields.

All children aged five and over are welcome and will learn to play tag rugby. Children from Year 4 upwards will be introduced to contact rugby.

Any children interested in playing rugby are welcome to come along. For further information, contact Neil on 01440 730825.

Rovers ready for big kick-off

PETER Betts' Haverhill Rovers will hope all the pre-season preparation has paid off when his team open their Thurlow Nunn League Premier Division campaign at home to Branham Athletic on Saturday.

The Rovers boss is keen to improve on last season's 14th-place finish and has spent the summer busily strengthening his squad with a number of new signings.

Ryan Henshaw, who marked his first appearance with a goal in Rovers' opening pre-season friendly against Newmarket, could give Betts (pictured) more options at the back along with new keeper Adam Holloway and defender Perry Moody.

But it is striker Dan Cornwell who could be vital to Rovers' hopes of a strong showing in the league this season.

He scored a hat-trick in last week's 5-0 win over a Needham Market XI, a result that will have given him and rest of the team a welcome confidence boost.

Jack Higgs' free-kick and a goal from Henshaw completed the scoring.

Stuart Wardley's departure to Saffron Walden is something of a blow but, after struggling with injuries last season, it is unlikely he would have played a big part in the forthcoming campaign anyway.

Branham finished in third place last season and are expected to challenge for the title again, so Rovers will face a tough test on Saturday.

That stern examination will continue when they take on Wisbech Town, another of the teams expected to feature close to the top, on August 7.

Anthony's knock is a big fillip

ANTHONY Phillips top-scored for Haverhill in their 85-run win at home to Elmstead Grasshoppers in Division One of the Marshall Hatchick Two Counties Championship.

Phillips hit 67, with Liam Youngs and Bill Moran backing him up with 62 and 45 respectively as the hosts set an imposing total of 264 for 7.

Dan Poole clinched 4 for 40 as Grasshoppers were restricted to 179 for 7.

In Division Six, Haverhill II coasted to a nine-wicket victory over Earls Colne. Having dismissed their opponents for 100, they reached 104 for 1 in reply.

However, the thirds were beaten in Division 8W, being bowled out for 101 and seeing opponents Newton safely reach 103 for 6.

■ Hardwick & Caldecote clinched victory by just one wicket at Weston Colville in the Tucker Gardner Cambs & Hunts Premier League, Division Two.

Colville could not have asked for a worse start with both openers, Paul Dean and Trevor Westley, going for ducks.

Adam Taylor (61) and Alex Meddle looked to be in good nick as they made 101 for the fifth wicket, only for the latter to have to retire not out on 51.

The hosts went on to set a target of 186 for 8, with Ruwan Pitigala claiming 3 for 58.

It did not prove to be enough though, opener Mark Ainslie top-scoring with 41 as Hardwick reached 187 for 9 despite the efforts of Matt Daniels with 3 for 31 and Westley (3 for 62).

■ Robert Ketteridge ensured Horseheath just managed to fend off a spirited comeback from Great Shelford as their Mr Cricket CCA Senior League Division One match went right down to the wire.

The visitors looked to be dead and buried on 121 for 9 chasing 167 for victory, but Gihan Herath and No 11 Robert Nettleton got them right back in the mix.

However, Herath was removed for 33 by Ketteridge (3 for 40) three balls from the end to leave Nettleton stranded on 17 not out and Shelford agonisingly dismissed for 165. Martin Giles got 3 for 33.

Daniel Goldsmith and Ketteridge had earlier struck 75 and 51 not out respectively as they shared an 80-run stand in Horseheath's 166 for 3. Herath, Paul Ellum and Paul Mortlock got a wicket each.

■ Haverhill's match at home to Woolpit in the Hunts County Bats Suffolk League, Division One on Sunday ended in a 13-run defeat.

The visitors posted 233 for 8 in their 40 overs and then held Haverhill to 220 for 7.

■ Horseheath will have to wait to clinch promotion from Division 2W of the Adams Harrison Midweek League after suffering defeat to Shelfords.

Robbie Ketteridge made an unbeaten 55 in Horseheath's total of 123 for 6, but Noel Smith trumped that with 79 not out as Shelfords reached 127 for 1 in the 16th over. The victors had lost the previous night, however, seeing Haverhill II overtake their total of 127 for 6, reaching 129 for 3 thanks largely to Ian Botten's unbeaten 41.

It made it two wins in a week for Haverhill II, who reached 111 for 7 in reply to Babraham's 109 for 9.

Abington II were relegated after being bowled out for 60 by Horseheath, who had earlier posted 108 for 8, while Babraham lost again against Fulbourn, being dismissed for only 46 in reply to 116 for 6.

The Division 1W title is almost in Sawston's hands after Sam Powell hit a brilliant 119 in their victory over Abington.

Ben Benson added 36 to Sawston's total of 187 for 3, and Abington were restricted to 145 for 8, Will Turner making 39.

Haverhill also beat Abington, though it was a closer match as they crossed the line with three balls remaining, despite
